*"Experience the excited wonder that comes from witnessing something rare in theatre: a new, authentically original vision."
-New York Times*

Tarell Alvin McCraney's The Brother/Sister Plays are dangerous, modern-day stories of kinship, love, heartache and coming-of-age. McCraney speaks authentically about a world that is gritty and lyrical, urban and mythic. One of the most startling new American theatrical voices of the 21st century, McCraney is thrilling audiences internationally by pushing the boundaries of language, form, and sexuality in provocative and poetic ways.
