Company One Theatre and ArtsEmerson Present

An Octoroon

A NEW ENGLAND PREMIERE

By Branden Jacobs-Jenkins, Directed by Summer L. Williams

January 29, - February 27 2016 | Jackie Liebergott Black Box Theatre, Emerson/Paramount Center

Boston, MA — Company One Theatre (C1) and ArtsEmerson: The World on Stage and Screen present An Octoroon by Branden Jacobs-Jenkins. Performances take place January 29, 2016 through February 27, 2016 at the Jackie Liebergott Black Box Theatre at the Emerson/Paramount Center (559 Washington Street in Boston's historic theatre district). Tickets, from $25-$35, are on sale now at www.artsemerson.org or by phone at 617-824-8400. Group, student, and senior discounts are available.

The hottest play of 1859 is back! There's trouble at the plantation: No one is falling in love with who they should be, someone has been murdered, and, unless the mail comes soon, all hope is lost! Obie-award winner Branden Jacobs-Jenkins transforms a 19th century melodrama for today's "post-racial," spectacle-obsessed world. An Octoroon, directed by Summer L. Williams, is an incendiary, subversively funny exploration of identity, jammed with sensation and surprises.

"An Octoroon is a wildly comedic and clever look at race in America from the 1800s to present that asks how far we've truly come," says Company One Theatre's Artistic Director, Shawn LaCount. "We are honored to produce this mega-hit direct from its sold out New York production. Reuniting director Summer L. Williams and playwright Branden Jacobs-Jenkins, who previously collaborated on the explosive Neighbors.

In addition to reuniting Williams and Jacobs-Jenkins, An Octoroon marks the second co-production for Company One and ArtsEmerson, who previously collaborated on We Are Proud to Present a Presentation about the Herero of Namibia, Formerly Known as Southwest Africa, from the German Sudwestafrika, Between the Years 1884-1915.

"An Octoroon confirms that we're on very shaky ground whenever we attempt to tell stories about the history of race in America," says Polly Carl, ArtsEmerson's Creative Director. "As two theater companies who recognize the reality of that shaky ground, we're committed to presenting challenging theater that can deepen our understanding and further our conversations of race in the city of Boston."

Dubbed a New York Times critics' pick in 2014, chief theatre critic Ben Brantley described the play as "Hilarious and harrowing ... This decade's most eloquent theatrical statement on race in America today."

Critical praise received the 2014 Obie Award for Best New Play for both An Octoroon and appropriate (the latter recently received a run at Boston's SpeakEasy Stage Company). Jenkins is currently a Residency Five playwright at Signature Theatre and a Lila Acheson Wallace Fellow at The Juilliard School.
